Drop That Mag Without Breaking Your Grip on the Gun

The Tandemkross Titan Extended Magazine Release for the Browning Buck Mark provides a larger contact surface than the factory button, so shooters with small hands can operate it easily without changing hand position. An excellent enhancement for ANY shooter who just wants a button that's easier to locate and hit under pressure, especially in competition. Tandemkross ships your Titan Extended Magazine Release for Buck Mark with two buttons. A paddle-style button with deep surface grooves extends back toward the shooter, so it's just the ticket for any shooter with a short thumb. The paddle may be angled up or down for a custom fit. There's also a checkered round button that's taller and wider than the factory button, but low enough so shooters with larger hands won't accidentally activate it. Ideal for young shooters, competition shooters, or any shooter with small hands Drop-in installation Durable steel and anodized aluminum construction Deeply textured surfaces for non-slip finger contact Available in black or silver - choose the color that matches, or contrasts with, your gun The Tandemkross Titan Extended Magazine Release is easy to install on your Browning Buck Mark. Can you can read instructions and field strip your pistol? If you can, then you can install the Titan quickly - and hit the range to enjoy its benefits.
