Enhance Your Shotgun's Sighting System

One of the most popular tactical-style shotguns on the market today is the Beretta 1301 Tactical. Now, owners of this defensive platform can enhance their rapid target-acquisition capabilities by adding an Aimpoint Micro to their shotgun's receiver with the Aridus Industries Co-Witness Ready Optic Mount. Each Aridus Industries Co-Witness Ready Optic Mount is designed to replace the plastic rail and rear sight found on the top of the Beretta 1301. This mount attaches directly to the shotgun's receiver, enabling a comfortable cheek weld and a rapid sight picture. A ghost-ring rear aperture from XS Sights is included with the mount, allowing users to attach a front sight of their choice to create a backup sighting option, should the red-dot optic go down. All-black finish Includes only one base Zero dependent on barrel length and shotshell selection The Aridus Industries Co-Witness Ready Optic Mount is designed for use with the Beretta 1301 Tactical only, not the company's Competition model, due to different hole spacing on the receiver top.
