More Trigger Time, Less Downtime Filling Up Mags

Keep your 5.45x39mm Kalashnikov well fed with KCI's AK-74 95-round drum magazine! It's constructed of black polymer with a clear polymer front plate, and high-tensile compression springs that keep the ammo moving. The sturdy metal followers act like ball bearings - when kept properly lubricated, they will ensure a pleasant absence of misfeeds or (worse) unwanted jams. KCI's dual-drum setup has an alternating feed system that draws one round from one drum, then the next round from the other drum, and so on. This eliminates the weight imbalance that would be caused by emptying one drum completely before starting on the other. You've got a fixed center of gravity during sustained fire. Your 95-round AK-74 magazine comes with: Polymer speedloader Nylon carrying pouch Graphite lubricant tube for the follower The assurance of the quality construction of a product made in South Korea When everyone's 30-rd mags run dry at the range, your Kalash'll still be blazing away with a KCI AK-74 drum magazine attached to it! Your shooting buddies will be envious, but just tell 'em where they can get one of their own
