Prepare Your Rifle for Any Scenario

Though today's commercial optics, both magnified and electronic, have gotten much tougher and more capable with advancing technology, there's nothing like having a solid set of back-up iron sights available to use in any scenario. Known for its expansive line of solidly built components, Midwest Industries added its AR-15 Combat Rifle Folding Sight Set, giving AR owners a new sighting option. The Midwest Industries AR-15 Combat Rifle Folding Sight Set consists of a front and rear sight that meets all mil-spec requirements for height and are constructed from a combination of high-grade steel and 6061 aluminum. This blended construction ensures that the sights are strong where needed while avoiding the unnecessary weight of all-steel sights. Color: black Stays secured with dual-locking detent springs Available in Rifle (1.5 MOA) and Carbine (2 MOA) adjustments on front-sight post; 0.5 MOA adjustments at the rear Installs with torque-clamp screw at 35 inch-pounds The front sight post on the Midwest Industries AR-15 Combat Rifle Folding Sight Set is a standard A2-style design, while the rear aperture provides an intermediate opening for fast aiming at close range and enhanced precision at a distance.
