For years, the BG-AK grip design had been offered to consumers through a company other than TangoDown, but in recent years, the company went out of business, leaving consumers asking for the grip design once more. Now, TangoDown is offering its BG-AK grip once more. Thanks to a collaborative effort between a company that owns the BG-AK design and TangoDown, consumers can take advantage of the unique, ergonomic design offered by the TangoDown BG-AK grip, which promotes enhanced handling and control over most AK-style rifles and pistols. Each TangoDown BG-AK grip includes aggressive texturing and features a hollow internal-storage compartment sized to fit small spare parts or batteries. A weather-resistant cap protects and secures stored components from the elements.
