A Purpose-Built Mounting Option for Your Trijicon MRO

One of the market's most-popular red-dot optics is the Trijicon MRO, thanks to its battle-ready construction and its incredible battery life that runs up to 5 years off a single CR2032 battery. A bombproof optic like this needs a mounting system to match, and the Reptilia DOT Mount is purpose-built for use with Trijicon's flagship red-dot optic. Each Reptilia DOT Mount is machined from 7075-T6 aluminum and features a mil-spec, hardcoat-anodized finish. The mount provides a standard lower 1/3 co-witness mount that's compatible with AR-15 backup iron sights, and the spring-loaded clamp and mounting bolt are flush with the side of the mount, so there's nothing that'll snag on brush and other potential snagging hazards in any environment. The mount is machined entirely in the USA and is available in black or flat dark earth finishes.
