A SOPMOD-Style Stock for Your AR-15

SOPMOD-style stocks offer an enhanced cheek weld for shooters, and that's one of the primary benefits found in the Bravo Company BCM Gunfighter SOPMOD Mod 1 stock, which is designed for use with all standard, mil-spec receiver extensions. Getting a solid cheek weld on your stock means you can stay in your sight picture longer, allowing shooters to take their time in making solid hits at distance. The Bravo Company BCM Gunfighter SOPMOD Mod 1 stock is also built with a completely snag-free design, so you won't suffer from lost time and focus from getting your stock hung up with your sling, MOLLE gear or other equipment. One of the highlights of this stock is the inclusion of the Modular Vehicle Borne Operations Sling Tab, which secures a rifle sling against the rifle's stock when not in use. Other features found in the Bravo Company BCM Gunfighter SOPMOD Mod 1 stock include two different ambidextrous sling-mounting spots, as well as quick-detach sling-swivel sockets. The stock also features a storage compartment in the buttpad, and the rubber pad also anchors the stock into a shooter's shoulder when the gun is brought up into action.
