A Buttstock Assembly to Build Your BRN-10 into a Carbine

Want to get the right look for your retro rifle build? For that classic AR .308 look, there's no better option than Brownells' BRN-10® Furniture Kits. Designed to look just like the original Dutch furniture kits from the 1950s, these complete furniture sets will get your rifle looking exactly like those old-school battle rifles. One of the earliest of Eugene Stoner's rifle designs to be adopted by any military was the AR-10, and the Dutch picked up this gun with a unique set of furniture that included a rounded handguard complete with six venting holes on each side to provide cooling for the barrel. The guns also had a unique AR-10 pistol grip and buttstock assembly, both of which are hard, even impossible, to find in nice original condition these days. The Brownells BRN-10® Furniture Kits are molded from polymer and feature the same dimensions, styling and coloring as the original Dutch ARs. The handguard is designed for use on rifle-length gas system, and the grip will fit any AR-15 or DPMS-pattern AR .308 lower. The stock also fits all standard AR rifles.
