Smooth Those Hard-To-Reach Spots For Lightest Pull

You can't get a great action job with out cleaning up every bit of roughness inside the Single Action Army's frame. You'll be amazed at how much you can reduce the single action's cocking effort and lighten perceived trigger pull without ever touching the critical trigger/hammer notches. Well worth the effort on first and second generation Colts, especially important on 3rd generation and clones with cast or roughly forged frames. The MF-414 stone fits nicely in the hand slot and cuts quickly to get rid of casting roughness. Follow with the HF-823 to make a slick, polished path for the hand. Use the MF-14 to round the nose of the hammer notch. Thanks to Eddie Janis of Peacemaker Specialists for his help with this kit.

Instructions for Installation and Usage

1. Preparation

- Gather all necessary tools and materials.
- Ensure that your work area is clean and organized.

2. Using the MF414 Stone

- Hold the MF414 stone comfortably in your hand.
- Begin by lightly applying the stone to the rough areas inside the Single Action Army's frame.
- Use a backandforth motion to gradually remove roughness.
- Check your progress frequently to avoid overshaping.

3. Using the HF823 Stone

- After using the MF414, switch to the HF823 stone.
- This stone is for polishing and should be used in the same manner as the MF414.
- Focus on creating a smooth path for the hand.

4. Using the MF14 Stone

- Use the MF14 stone to round the nose of the hammer notch.
- Be gentle and take your time to ensure a proper fit.

5. Cleaning Up

- After completing your work, clean the stones and the work area.

- Dispose of any debris properly to maintain a safe environment.

Disposal Instructions

- Dispose of the stones and packaging in accordance with local regulations.
- Do not dispose of stones in household waste. Check for recycling options for stone materials.
